

I am writing to request that Chairman Powell delay the rule change on media consolidation, to allow time for a democratic debate about its consequences.

An issue of such massive importance should be opened to the American public, and the text of the rule change should be available to the American public. Anything less than availing such information for benefit of the voting Public's consideration and scrutiny underscores and, in fact, magnifies a willfully rapacious appetite for acquisition and monopoly, and a willful desire to exclude the majority from decisions and power impacting their quality of life and American freedom of choice.